Footnotes:

-Permissive exemptions include exemptions to non-profit/charitable organizations as well as heritage and revitalization exemptions.

-City of Victoria grants exclude $1.59 million in flow-through grant funding to various non-profit organizations from the Strengthening Communities' Services Program and from the Ministry of Agriculture, Food & Fisheries for the creation of a food hub.

-The Vancouver Charter provides a range of statutory exemptions to charitable/non-profit organizations that parallel permissive exemption provisions in the Community Charter. This is why the City of Vancouver's permissive exemptions are much lower than other municipalities. The City of Vancouver grant figure includes $16.58 million to business improvement associations.

-North Vancouver, Prince George, and Coquitlam report the municipal share of public library contributions as grant payments. For comparability with other municipalities, library funding has been removed from total grants.

-North Vancouver includes payment to the North Vancouver Recreation Commission as a grant payment and this contribution has been removed from total grants.

-Nanaimo reported grants greater than $25,000 in their Statement of Financial Information therefore the amount reported above is likely understated as it does not include grant payments below this threshold.

-City of Langford did not provide grants-in-aid in 2022.
